Reasons to do business in the United Arab Emirates - Robust, open economy.

There is a free and dynamic economy characterising the UAE. A significant portion of its income is from exports of oil and gas. Successful efforts have been made to diversify its dependence on hydrocarbons as a solid industrial base has been created, along with a strong service sector. The establishment of French zones has been an important feature of this policy of diversification.

Security and stability

Since its initiation in 1971, the UAE has enjoyed an enviable degree of political stability which is unparalleled in the region. This has permitted the implementation of sound and consistent economic policies reinforcing the country's social structure to produce a more convenient, more prosperous and safer world. Dubai and Abu Dubai are the first two Middle Eastern cities adopting a quality of life. A number of reputable multinational operational headquarters are located in Dubai.

Tax efficient business environment

Special economic zones and free zones offer 100 percent repatriation of profits and capital as well as tax breaks. Outside these areas, significant incentives are offered to investors and corporate governance provisions to ensure that transparency and accountability are in place. Taxes on businesses are reserved only for branches of foreign banks and oil producing companies. An insignificant tariff of 5 percent is imposed on products imported from non-Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC), However, Tobacco and alcohol are subject to a 50 percent customs duties.

Intellectual Property Protection

Intellectual property, including patents and trademarks, is legally protected in the United Arab Emirates and considerable efforts are being made to implement these laws. The country is also a member of international organizations, treaties and conventions that protect intellectual property, including the Organization World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), World Trade Organization (WTO), Paris Convention, Patent Cooperation Treaty (PCT), WIPO, the WIPO Performances, The Phonograms Treaty (WPPT) and the Rome Convention..

MARINAL EMIRADOS

solid infrastructure

Infrastructure in the United Arab Emirates has no rival. Telecommunications, including mobile, fixed telephone and Internet access are on par if not better than major centers of international business in the world. The road network is constantly upgraded as ports and airports are world class standards. To date, the Government has invested heavily in infrastructure development, but has also opened its utilities and other infrastructure to greater private sector participation, so much that public-private associations and partnerships are the norm.
